Let's get digital

We are selective when it comes to picking projects and partners. Why? Because, to deliver world class software we need to have an absolute passion not only for technology, but also for the community we're helping.

CURRENT PROJECTS

What we're working on

Peachy : Software for the Small but Mighty

Just-enough software to support a high performance workforce. Goal setting, 1:1 / coaching and mentoring as well as learning management.

#digitalAF: Software for a Modern Air Force

An initiative to build world-class software for our heroes and to pave the way for future projects to succeed in developing and delivering modern SaaS offerings within the Department of National Defence and Canadian Armed Forces.

Anishnabeg Outreach (AO) Nest: Learning Management System

A curated knowledge repository supported by a professional mentorship network empowering the Indigenous people of Canada to achieve economic and social independence.

About Harled

Harled is a boutique software development team based in Kitchener, Ontario. We are passionate about our projects in national defence, Indigenous reconciliation and building software for high-performance teams.

A company founded in a humble and pragmatic approach to radically improving organizations through technology.

Since forming in 2017, we have committed ourselves to delivering interesting and meaningful software projects with partners who are incredibly good at what they do.

We are extremely proud of the missions of our partners and the work that we do to empower them.

Harley and Ed. Inspiration from two grandfathers.

Harley was an individual who believed in working hard, working efficiently and always striving for more. He was a startup founder of a different era. One who formed a wood pallet business through sheer hustle (manually straightening a lot of bent nails). His dedication led to growing a side hustle into a vibrant industry player in southern Ontario.

Small but Mighty.

As a small company we place an extreme emphasis on our team and ensure that each member is presented with ample opportunity to grow and develop skills and experience.

To date, every member of the team has seized the opportunity to call a unique and meaningful contribution their own.
